Product Highlights

Dock Shelter

Dock Shelters protect personnel and merchandise from harsh weather, extreme temperatures, wind, rain, pollution, etc. In some sectors, such as meat production, they are mandatory. This is why COMBURSA recommends considering one during the design process of any installation. They can also be adapted to already existing installations. The shelter adapts to any anomaly in the loading dock thanks to its double upper sheeting and cut.

Diesel Explosion Protection

System 5000D™
System 5000D is Pyroban's Active protection brand for all types of diesel equipment working in Zone 2 areas. The system continuously monitors for an explosive atmosphere and will shut the equipment down if necessary. With full certification, System 5000D ensures all ignition sources protected but retains all the ergonomic and performance benefits of the original equipment.

AS Interface

The Actuator/Sensor Interface (AS-Interface) is a replacement for conventional wiring systems, which typically require two wires for power supply and an additional wire for the signal or control line. In the case of AS-Interface, however, one two-wire flat cable is sufficient for transmitting data and power for all stations (up to 62 per line possible).
